HOW TO RESTORE YOUR HEALTH AND REDUCE STRESS

Dr. Natasha Turner

Opening
Keynote
Speaker

Dr. Turner addresses the two most common hormonal imbalances today: excess insulin and high cortisol. Why these two? Although both insulin and cortisol play an essential role in healthy body function, an excess of either hormone can be destructive to your metabolism, body composition and overall wellness. Together, they have become recognized as the root cause of unhealthy aging, often leading to digestive disorders, anxiety, fatigue, weight gain, cravings, abdominal fat, irritability, insomnia, headaches and even depression. In this engaging lecture, Dr. Turner uncovers a 30-day plan so you can reduce and reverse abdominal fat, high blood pressure, high blood sugar, systemic inflammation and cholesterol levels.

THE TAX COURT – “THE BEST COURT IN THE LAND”

The Honourable Eugene Rossiter – Associate Chief Justice
– Tax Court Canada

Winston Churchill once said, “there is no such thing as a good tax” but The Honourable Eugene P. Rossiter, Associate Chief Justice of the Tax Court of Canada, claims the Tax Court is the best court in the land. This session will provide an informative, yet entertaining overview of the role of the Tax Court in Canada. During this presentation, we will learn why the Tax Court exists, how it operates and more importantly, how to prove a case there.

SOCIAL MEDIA – MARKETING AT YOUR FINGERTIPS

Vivian Manning – Barriston LLP

Social media has allowed an individual or business to communicate with people on a scale beyond what was formerly considered a target market. By using networking platforms readily available, including blogs and social media tools such as LinkedIn, Facebook and Twitter, we can engage with potential clients while increasing search engine optimization or ranking. Vivian's presentation will explain the potential impact these media can have in marketing and promotion.

FAMILY MEDIATION – CHANGING THE MINDSET; CHANGING THE PROCESS

Douglas Manning – Barriston LLP

Mediation in Family Law has become prevalent, allowing parties more control and involvement throughout the process. When properly prepared, parties can avoid the adversarial approach of litigation and focus instead on an outcome everyone can live with. This session will outline the essentials of preparing a persuasively organized Mediation Brief and presentation with an emphasis on the client's objectives.

FINANCIAL STATEMENTS DONE PROPERLY – THE DEVIL IS IN THE DETAIL

Herschel Fogelman – Basman Smith LLP

The single most important document in a family law file that involves any financial issues is the financial statement. It is also a document where errors are easy to make, and these errors can produce serious consequences for your client and or in the timely resolution of the case. This is a document that at, least initially, is produced by law clerks, and all too often, not carefully reviewed by your instructing solicitor. In this presentation, we will explore many of the common mistakes made by clerks and lawyers in the completion of financial statements, and provide tips and reminders of how to best avoid them.

ESTATE PLANNING & ADMINISTRATION FOR PERSONS WITH DISABILITIES – MORE THAN JUST A HENSON TRUST

Darren Lund – Borden Ladner Gervais LLP

Proper estate planning is necessary to protect a disabled beneficiary, in particular where the disabled beneficiary receives benefits from the Ontario Disability Support Program. While the “Henson Trust” has become a well-known tool for protecting ODSP benefits, there are other planning opportunities available, both to maximize the usefulness of trusts and also to mitigate the problems that may arise where a person dies and no planning has been implemented. This presentation will address the following issues:

- Basics of the Ontario Disability Support Program
- The Henson Trust: Characteristics, Uses, and Limitations
- Use of Trusts other than the Henson Trust
- Maximizing the Usefulness of Trusts
- Registered Disability Savings Plans
- Disability Related Items or Services under ODSP

AN INTRODUCTION TO INVESTIGATIVE INTERVIEWING

Joseph Coltson – Duff & Phelps Canada Limited

From custodian interviews to internal work place investigations, legal professionals have an ever increasingly difficult job separating truth from deception and obtaining the information they require to mitigate their firm's risks, as well as their clients. Legal Professionals are often expected to ask, and get meaningful answers to sensitive and difficult questions.

Empower yourself with the tool you require to seek answers, form meaningful opinions, and reach thoughtful and well-founded conclusions.

This lecture will provide the training opportunity legal professionals need to ask the right questions and to recognize the intricacies of candor, sincerity and deception. This is not a course on interrogation, but rather one on effective investigative interviewing.

MERGERS AND ACQUISITIONS – BEHIND THE CLOSING AGENDA

Ron Smith – Grant Thornton LLP

Whether a purchase or sale transaction involves the acquisition of a large national company or a one store franchise, the issues surrounding closing such transactions can be extremely varied. Is one party unrepresented? What level of due diligence is required? What indemnifications should be sought? What can be an undertaking post-closing and what must be a condition of closing? These are merely a few of the questions and considerations that flow from the development of the transaction and, when answered, form the basis of the pre-closing covenants. Through an interactive presentation and open forum discussion this program will explore a variety of pre-closing covenants and their origin, use and implications, and how these covenants tie into the closing agenda and closing issues.

THE NEXT STEP FOR LAW CLERKS: THE PREPARATION OF THE EXPERT WITNESS FOR CROSS-EXAMINATION

Richard Shekter – Shekter Dychtenberg LLP

A leading civil, criminal, and administrative tribunal trial lawyer will provide guidance and a road map for law clerks and other legal professionals who desire to learn the skills and techniques necessary to be successful in preparing yourself, or your instructing lawyer, to conduct cross-examinations of the Expert Witness at trials or hearings. Mr. Shekter will also provide a paper in addition to his PowerPoint presentation for Conference attendees to assist in understanding this technical area of trial work.

This is an excellent opportunity to learn and grow if your work involves any kind of civil litigation, criminal litigation or tribunal matters where Expert Witnesses may be called upon to provide testimony. With his unusual practice mix, and his proven success as a litigator, Mr. Shekter brings a unique perspective to the field of cross-examination of these challenging witnesses. His presentation will also have resonance to cross-examinations generally.
